Biography

Ferrato was born on 5 June 1949 in Waltham, Massachusetts, but she lived in Lorain, Ohio. Her father, Peter John Ferrato, was a vascular chest surgeon who married Ann O'Mally. The couple had three children: Donna Ferrato, Peter (Pizzo) Ferrato, and Louis T. Ferrato. Donna Ferrato graduated from the Laurel Shcool in Shaker Heights, Ohio in 1968. They recognized her in 1992 as one of the Laurel School's Distinguished Alumna. Ferrato attended Garland Junior College in Boston, where she met and married Harvard graduate Mark Webb.

In 1971, Ferrato and Webb moved to San Francisco, where Ferrato worked as a legal secretary. In 1975, Ferrato and Webb divorced, and Ferrato started photographing and hitchhiking across the United States. In San Francisco, she worked odd jobs, including a stint as the camera girl at the Hilton Hotel. She studied photography at The Art Institute of California.

In 1977, Ferrato met artist Michael Bowen and travelled with him and his family on a cruise to join an art colony in Portugal. Ferrato parted ways with Bowen and started hitchhiking around Belgium and France, where she photographed baguette culture in Paris. Also in Paris, she worked at Claude Nori's photography gallery Contrejour.

In 1979, Ferrato moved to New York City, where she started photographing in sex clubs and nightclubs. Ferrato visited the famous swingers club Plato's Retreat several times and was then commissioned by Japanese Playboy to photograph a prominent swinger couple known as Garth and Lisa. Ferrato immersed herself in Garth and Lisa's life, moved in with the couple at their Saddle River mansion. There she realized that Garth was not the good, devoted husband he appeared to be. One night, she witnessed a horrific scene: Garth attacked Lisa and beat her mercilessly as she cowered in the master bathroom. That night changed her life forever. She decided to reveal the unspeakable things happening behind closed doors.

For the next decade, Ferrato travelled across the country photographing domestic violence, riding in police cars, sleeping in shelters, and staying in the homes of battered women. Thus, she published Living With the Enemy (Aperture Foundation, 1991); there she showed the world of domestic violence. In 2011, Ferrato launched the I Am Unbeatable campaign, which aims to expose, document, and raise awareness of domestic violence by creating an archive of stories, photographs, and video narratives.

In 1991 Ferrato was the highest bidder at an auction to have tea with the new First Lady Hillary Clinton. Accompanied by Lisa; filmmaker Stacey Kabat; Lenore E. Walker, psychologist and author; Sue Ostoff, founder and director of the National Clearinghouse for the Defense of Battered Women; and her father and daughter, Ferrato urged Clinton to support the establishment of a think tank dedicated to sexual violence and domestic abuse.

Alongside her work with domestic violence, Ferrato continued to photograph sex clubs, swingers' events, and other forms of sexual experimentation and lovemaking. In the late 1980s and early 1990s, Ferrato published stories with The Philadelphia Inquirer and Stern on the swingers' group Lifestyles, and in 2008, she worked with journalist Claudia Glenn Dowling filming group marriages as part of the Oxygen series "Sex Lives on Videotape." In 2004, she published her third book, Love & Lust, a look at human intimacy. In 2008, she was featured in American Swing, a documentary chronicling the story of Plato's Retreat and Larry Levenson from the mid-1970s to late-1980s.

CIERRE

Activity 7: Think and Design.

Vuelve a observar la fotografía “Policeman with pamphlet”. Lee la descripción y luego reflexiona. ¿Conoces alguna situación cercana como las que se describen en las fotografías? ¿Puedes pensar en cómo evitarlas? Diseña un folleto con información que le brindarías a personas en esas situaciones. ¿Usarías las fotos de situaciones reales de Donna Ferrato? ¿Qué imágenes usarías para diseñar tu folleto? ¿Describirías las imágenes? ¿Contarías el trabajo que hizo Donna Ferrato? Saber que alguien lucha por la violencia doméstica es transmitir esperanza a quienes la padecen. ¿A quiénes les darías tus folletos para que los entreguen o en qué lugares los dejarías para que la información llegue a quienes la necesitan?
